A lifelong learner and educator, Barbara's academic achievements were remarkable. After becoming a Registered Professional Nurse certified in Emergency Department Nursing by the Cook County Graduate School of Medicine, she went on to earn a Bachelor of Science in Health Studies from Barat College. Her thirst for knowledge did not stop there; she obtained a Master of Arts from Northeastern Illinois University and further distinguished herself as a National Certified Counselor and an Illinois Licensed Clinical Professional Counselor.

Barbara's professional life was as vibrant and impactful as her academic pursuits. She provided compassionate care and expert guidance at the Highland Park Hospital Emergency Department, where her analytical mind and calm demeanor were invaluable during critical moments. Her career path also led her to Lake County Mental Health, where she made significant contributions to community well-being, with a particular interest in helping women. In her private practice, Barbara combined her deep understanding of human behavior with a heart full of empathy, offering solace and solutions to those in need.

Beyond her professional and academic accomplishments, Barbara was an aficionado of orchids, finding joy in the delicate beauty and complexity of these flowers. Her love for orchids mirrored her own nature—both analytical and loving, with an appreciation for the intricate patterns of life.
